

Firm Profile

Woodard, Emhardt, Moriarty, McNett & Henry, LLP is a full-service intellectual property law firm based in Indianapolis, Indiana. Our areas of specialty include patent, trademark, copyright and unfair competition law, including litigation of intellectual property issues in all state and federal courts, practice before the United States Patent and Trademark Office, and proceedings before the International Trade Commission. We provide specialized intellectual property law services in both obtaining protection (prosecution) and litigation. Clients appreciate our "big-city service" combined with Midwestern values.

Integrity and a strong client focus form the cornerstone of our business philosophy. This dedication to serving clients manifests itself in our internal cadre of attorneys specializing in a variety of technical disciplines, enabling clients to benefit from efficiencies of scale. Time is not lost recruiting technical expertise, as we can easily match each case with the appropriate counsel. Clients range from companies with corporate assets to protect to individuals with creative ideas. All clients, no matter what the size, can rest assured that we have their best interests in mind and will proceed as good stewards of their resources.
